

PICMG updates and the value of open standards

Wednesday 6 December 2023 09:30 (15 minutes)

PICMG is a nonprofit global consortium of companies and organizations that collaboratively develop open standards for high-performance embedded computing applications, including MicroTCA which released a new revision in 2023. This presentation will survey the 29 years of open specifications and introduce our new initiatives. We will discuss the current specifications, our development processes, and the value of PICMG membership.

PICMG members benefit by participating in standards development, gaining early access to critical technology, and developing relationships with thought leaders and suppliers in the industry. The consortium's work product influence and mission critical applications to thrive for decades.
